Management Discussion of Fund Performance

November 12, 2019

This Management Discussion of Fund Performance presents the portfolio management team's view on the significant factors and developments during the period ended September 30, 2019, that have affected the ETF's performance and outlook. If the ETF was established during the period, "period" represents the period from inception to the end of the fiscal period. For information on the ETF's longer-term performance, as applicable, please refer to the Past Performance section of the report. In this report, "Mackenzie" refers to Mackenzie Financial Corporation, the manager of the ETF. In addition, net asset value ("NAV") refers to the value of the ETF as calculated for subscription and redemption purposes, on which the discussion of ETF performance is based.

Results of Operations

Investment Performance

During the period, the ETF returned 3.2% (after deducting fees and expenses). This compares with the Solactive Canadian Select Corporate Bond Index return of 3.4%. All index returns are calculated on a total return basis in Canadian dollar terms. Investors cannot invest in an index without incurring fees, expenses and commissions, which are not reflected in the index returns.

The Canadian bond market outperformed the broader global bond market in the period. The Canadian yield curve inverted as mid- and long-term yields fell significantly, while three-month and one-year yields rose. The Bank of Canada kept its policy rate unchanged at 1.75%. However, the central bank suggested it might cut its policy rate if the economic outlook, clouded by trade tensions between the United States and China and weaker global growth, did not improve.

Through the period, the ETF used a sampling methodology to invest in broadly diversified securities that collectively approximate the full index in terms of key characteristics. Alternatively, the ETF may invest substantially all its assets in the bonds that make up the index, holding each bond in approximately the same proportion as its weighting in the index.

The difference in performance between the ETF and the index resulted primarily from management fees and other operating expenses, as well as from the sampling methodology of the ETF.

Over the period, changes were made to the ETF's holdings to reflect changes in the composition of the index.

Net Assets

The ETF's NAV declined by 27.1% to $10.3 million at September 30, 2019, from $14.2 million at March 31, 2019. This change was composed primarily of $0.3 million in net income (including interest income) from investment performance, after deducting fees and expenses, $4.1 million in net redemptions, and $0.1 million in cash distributions.

At September 30, 2019, 77.8% of the ETF's NAV was held as inventory by the ETF's designated broker primarily for the purpose of sales to investors in the secondary market. See also Other Related Party Transactions for the percentage of the ETF's NAV owned by related parties. As a result of these investments, the ETF is subject to large transaction risk as discussed in the Prospectus. Mackenzie manages this risk to reduce the possibility of any adverse effect on the ETF or on its investors, through such processes as settling transactions in kind, charging creation and/or redemption fees for transactions settling in cash, and establishing appropriate order cut-off times for transactions.

Recent Developments

Because the ETF is an index fund, neither market expectations nor recent developments affect the composition of the portfolio.

Related Party Transactions

The following arrangements result in fees paid by the ETF to Mackenzie or to companies affiliated with the ETF.

Management Fees

The annualized management expense ratio ("MER") for the ETF of 0.33% during the period ended September 30, 2019, was slightly lower than the MER of 0.34% for the year ended March 31, 2019. On September 20, 2019, the management fee paid by the ETF to Mackenzie decreased to an annual rate of 0.14% from 0.30%.

The management fee for the ETF is calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of its NAV. The ETF's management fees were used by Mackenzie to pay for the costs of managing the investment portfolio of the ETF, including providing investment analysis and recommendations, making investment decisions, making brokerage arrangements for the purchase and sale of the investment portfolio, providing other services and licensing the index, and to pay for all costs and expenses (other than certain specified fund costs as more fully described in the Prospectus) required to operate the ETF.

(1) This information is provided as at the end of the fiscal period shown.

(2) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. If the ETF was established in the period, the management expense ratio is annualized from the date of inception. Mackenzie may waive or absorb operating expenses at its discretion and stop waiving or absorbing such expenses at any time without notice.

(3) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period. Mackenzie may reimburse the ETF for certain brokerage commissions and other transaction costs (including those payable to the custodian or its agents). Mackenzie may make these reimbursements at its discretion and stop these reimbursements at any time without notice.

(4) The ETF's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the ETF's portfolio advisor manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the ETF buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher an ETF's portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the ETF in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of an ETF. The portfolio turnover rate is not provided when the ETF is less than one year old.

(5) Closing market price, or the midpoint of the bid and ask prices in the absence of a closing market price, on the last trading day of the period as reported on the the Aquitas NEO Exchange Inc.
